The SEA Blue Chicago Prostate Cancer Walk & Run is only a week and a half away! If you haven't already registered, please do so today at http://www.ustooevents.org/site/R?i=chz_PJ9YT0nJzAkf1rugxw. Pre-registration will be available on the website until Thursday, September 8th at midnight. After Thursday, all registrations will take place at the event site on Sunday morning.

SEA Blue is a special event that brings the prostate cancer community together for a day to honor, to celebrate, to remember, to educate, and to inspire. As you will read in the SEA Story Spotlight on Team Trinco below, some of our teams have deep roots in the history of the event.

Prostate Cancer Education Tent

The education tent at SEA Blue offers a unique opportunity to hear some of the latest information about prostate cancer directly from the experts. Please join us in the education tent for these sessions:

Moderator:

Daniel H. Shevrin, MD, Medical Oncologist, NorthShore University HealthSystem

Session Details:

9:00am – 9:25am

Brian Helfand MD, PhD, Division of Urology, NorthShore University HealthSystem – “Moving Towards an Increased Understanding of Prostate Cancer Risk & Outcomes Using Genetic Tests”

9:25am – 9:45am

Jeffrey Albaugh PhD, APRN - “Reclaiming Intimacy After Prostate Cancer Treatment”

9:45am – 10:10am

“A Sex Life After Prostate Cancer” - Hear a prostate cancer survivor's personal journey to regain intimacy and recover from erectile dysfunction.

SEA Stories

Team Trinco is one of the longest running (and regularly one of the largest) teams at SEA Blue. Their arrival at the event site is always a busload of vim, vigor, blazing blue, and early morning enthusiasm. We are pleased they will be joining us again this year, starting the celebration early, and ending it late. This SEA Story describes what makes the team tick.
